Artist's Statement*

Studying and exploring various art mediums have been part of my journey. In the process, I've discovered a love for watermedia painting on both canvas and paper, pencil, pastel, ink, collage, assemblage and most recently photography. My current emphasis is on painting and photography.

I am an experimental artist with a passion for the relationship between color and light. The shifting of light changes our perception of color enhancing and enriching our visual field. Nature and symbolism are my inspiration. After years of studying representational art I began working intuitively. It was then I discovered the power and universality of color. It is this pulsating, illuminating and transforming force that encompasses my world. At the very deepest levels of human experience, color and light relate to psychology, mysticism, cosmology and history. It is not simply graphic but emotional, spiritual and psychological for me.

Art is a way to leave a mark, a symbol, to share with others and to say I've been here.

Artist's Statement
Immagini di Dio di acqua
St. Luke's United Methodist Church*

Symbolically water is the beginning of life with the power to create, sustain and destroy.

For Christians, water is the cleansing element that washes away sin in the sacrament of baptism. The belief that ritually consecrated water can bring divine blessing is not limited but is found in many cultures and belief systems throughout history. In the Judeo-Christian tradition, the dew symbolizes God's blessings raining down from heaven. For the psychologist, water can symbolize the deeper layers of the psyche.
